

Dr. Gilly Munavalli is board certified in dermatology as well as fellowship-trained in Mohs Micrographic Surgery and Dermatology surgery at the University of California-San Francisco. He is on the part-time faculty at the Johns Hopkins U. School of Medicine. His previous degrees include: Bachelor of Science from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, Masters of Health Sciences from Johns Hopkins-Bloomberg School of Public Health, Doctorate of Medicine from Morehouse Medical School in Atlanta, Georgia, and internship training at the Mayo Clinic. He completed his dermatology residency training at Emory University School of Medicine.

While his primary focus is skin cancer treatment and phlebology in Charlotte, NC at Dermatology, Laser, and Vein Specialists of the Carolinas (www.carolinaskin.com), Dr. Munavalli continues to teach part-time at Johns Hopkins University in the Department of Dermatology.